At the Presbyterian church yesterday, it was announced that the Boston presbytery had declared the pulpit vacant, following the resignation of Rev. J. B. MacKenzie, and until the selection of another pastor the elders were given authority to fill the pulpit. Rev. J. A. Cowan of Liberty, N. Y., is expected to officiate next Sunday.

Saturday night a surprise party was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cruden, 14 Granite street, on their return from a honeymoon trip to Montreal. John Chalmers, in a neat little speech, presented them two chairs. He spoke of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Cruden are held by the boarders and friends, and Mr. Cruden gave a suitable reply. They were then given an electric table lamp by Messrs. W. M. Grant and George Gray. The remainder of the evening was devoted to song and story. Violin solos by James Coutts and A. Wright and piccolo solos by W. G. Forbes added much pleasure to the occasion. An enjoyable evening was spent and the party broke up at midnight.

Frank Coburn of Berlin pleaded guilty in the city court this morning to a first offense of intoxication and paid a fine, with costs, amounting to $11.34. Coburn came into the police station Saturday night with his face covered with blood from a bruise on his nose, and one of his eyes was blackened and swollen so that it was partially closed. He told the officers that he had called to make a complaint on a house on River street and wanted the whole family arrested. Officer Carle asked what his complaint was, and he said that he had thrown him out of the house and refused to let him come in again. The officer said he would accommodate him with lodging and locked him up for being intoxicated. The officer then went to the house on River street and found everything quiet there. Do not forget the parish supper to-night at the Universalist church.

"The Proposal." "When a man marries his troubles begin," so run the lines of the old song, but this maxim did not impress Benj. Bins, when he began to realize his abject loneliness. He decides that he needs a wife, so he visits the widow Smith in hopes of winning her as his helpmate. To say that he is impressed by her is putting it mild, for he finds her a neat housekeeper, a good cook and apparently sweet-tempered. In fact, he reasons that she is just the one to make him happy. He hasn't, however, the courage to propose marriage to her personally, so decides to write it. Going to the letter box, he has just dropped his tender missive into its dark recesses, when he sees an illustration of what his lot may be as a married couple pass, the wife carrying a squawking baby, while the man is loaded down with bundles. Bins is aghast. "Me for that? Never!" But the letter is posted, and although he waits for the collector, his plea for its return is in vain. At the Dreamland. It's a Biography.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

The Clover club will meet with Miss Tilden at the usual hour on Tuesday afternoon.

The Scotch dance committee will hold a New Year's ball in Woodmen's hall Monday night, Jan. 2. Dancing from 8 till 2. Refreshments will be served during the evening. Admission, 75c per couple. Extra ladies 10 cents. Nicol's orchestra.

MONTPELIER.

A son was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Chase Wilkinson of Summer street.

Terrin & MacCladin, contractors, are to build a new Congregational church at Lancaster, N. H., beginning early in the spring. The amount appropriated for the building is $10,000 and the job will probably take between four and five months.

Members of the 520 club met Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Heston and watched the old year out and the new one in. The early part of the evening was spent in playing games, after which supper was served them at the Montpelier house.

It was expected that the telephone system along the Central Vermont would be ready for use January 1, but the work has been delayed so that it will probably be about the first of February. Most of the line work has been done and as soon as it is finished, the instruments will be placed in the stations.

Miss Dora Wells of Chicago, formerly of this city, gave a most enjoyable talk Saturday afternoon before the Woman's club and its guests. She took for her subject, "The Legend of the Holy Grail, as Interpreted by the Abbey Priests in the Boston Public Library." Miss Wells is an instructor in the Chicago teachers' college and her talk has been so widely admired that she has had it published in pamphlet form.

Benjamin Sawyer, a stone polisher in the employ of Doucette Brothers, has invented a portable and collapsible stand for use in carving and cutting large stones. The wooden horses heretofore in use have proved unsatisfactory and it is expected that within a short time every shed will be equipped with the stands. They are made in three pieces and arranged so as to be easily adjusted to any height or width and require only a small space when not in use. Mr. Sawyer has already applied for a patent and has received several orders for the stands.

Adjutant General Lee S. Tillotson has sent notices to all rifle ranges throughout the state that they will be discontinued and all militiamen will hereafter practice at Northfield. This does away with the local rifle range at the Tahom farm near the Barre transfer. In the future, aside from the indoor practice, which will be continued, the members of the several companies will get their practice at the four days' shoot at the state range at Northfield. The number of marksmen will probably be reduced by this new order, but the cost of maintenance of the militia will be considerably lessened.

DIES OF HER INJURIES.

Mrs. George Johnson of Readsboro Fatally Burned.

Bennington, Jan. 2.—Mrs. George Johnson of Readsboro died Thursday night as the result of fearful burns received by her two weeks ago, when a can containing gasoline exploded, covering her almost completely with the blinding fluid.

Mrs. Johnson believed she had purchased kerosene, but through a mistake in shipping, gasoline had been poured into the tank at the store where the purchase was made and her own can was filled with gasoline. It was placed in her kitchen and, soon after, she saw something was wrong, the can apparently being ablaze. She hastened to throw it from the house, but before she could do so the explosion occurred.

Doctors and a couple of trained nurses did everything possible for her after the accident, but to no avail, and death relieved her from her awful sufferings. Horace Jilison, who procured some of the gasoline in place of kerosene and who was burned badly when he went to hasten the fire with it, is slowly recovering and is out of danger. It is likely suits for damages will be instituted in the near future.
